

How do I pay with Bitcoin (BTC)?

To pay with Bitcoin, you won't need to connect your external wallet directly to the platform, as there's no wallet integration component at this time. Instead, follow this simple process:

Register your BTC address — Before sending any funds, you must register the Bitcoin address from which you'll be making the transaction. This helps our system recognize your payment.

Send the BTC manually — Use your external wallet to send the payment directly to our BTC wallet address. You'll find a "Copy Address" button in the payment section for convenience.

Wait for confirmation — Our backend system monitors the Bitcoin blockchain and automatically detects incoming transactions. Once your transfer is confirmed and matched with your registered wallet address, your balance will be updated on the platform.

Please make sure to register the correct sending address in advance, as unregistered transactions may not be automatically credited and could require manual verification.
